

Editorial Comments.

More than 1,000,000 bushels of corn have been imported from Argentina to New York under the new tariff law.

The desertion of one general at Ojinaga doesn't make much difference, as there are ten others left, or one to every 400 soldiers.

Prof. C. W. Richards, formerly of Princeton, Ky., now of Ardmore, Oklahoma, is a candidate for State Superintendent of Schools in his adopted State.

Hostilities are about to be resumed at Ojinaga with the federals preparing to put up a determined resistance. Poverty stricken Mexican refugees have overrun Marfa and Presidio, Texas, and the people have asked for help in caring for them.

The female lobbyists who are moving upon the Legislatures of New York and Maryland in armies marching on foot, are also expected to soon be in evidence in Frankfort. It is to be hoped that the present Kentucky Legislature will put an end to women suffrage agitation by repealing the school suffrage act passed by the last Legislature. Let's keep our Southern women out of politics.

The Evansville Courier, always a good paper, excelled itself last Sunday with a mammoth New Year's edition of 82 pages, covering every phase of Evansville's business activity, commercial, manufacturing and educational. The illustrations are profuse and the prosperity of the city is stamped on every page. None of the Courier's excellent news and literary features are lost in the big Sunday edition. It is gratifying to note that the Courier's prosperity is keeping pace with that of the city of Evansville.

HOPKINSVILLE'S POPULATION

Official 1910 was 9,419, In 1912 Was 10,146, New 10,957, Same Rate Increase.

In April 1912, the Caron Directory Co. took an official census of Hopkinsville, by authority of the city council and made the following report:

To the Board of Council:

Gentlemen—We have the honor to submit our report on the census of the city of Hopkinsville, authorized by your honorable body some weeks ago. We have made the enumeration with great care and find the population as follows:

White.....5,705
Colored.....4,441

Total.....10,146

Respectfully submitted,

Caron Directory Co.

This did not include a suburban population of 1,754. It showed an increase of 8 per cent. over the population of 9,419 taken by the government census of 1910. The same rate of increase since 1912 would add 811 more to the population, bringing it up to 10,957 or in round number 11,000. It is quite probable that the increase has been much larger and the present population is at least 12,000. At any rate it is at least 3,000 greater than the constitutional limit for fourth-class cities.

Grew After 36 Years Old.

Aurora, Ill. Jan. 7.—Hamilton Cherry, who was six feet nine inches in height, died near here, aged 73 years. Cherry was of ordinary height until 30 years old when he began to grow. He came from a family of giants, every member being more than six feet four inches tall.

MAYOR SNADON IS DEPOSED

Guthrie Council Chooses a Successor To The Mayor Elected.

A peculiar situation exists in Guthrie, two men claiming to be Mayor of that city, and the courts may be called upon to settle the controversy.

By an act of 1910 Guthrie became a city of the fifth, instead of sixth class, and at the regular city election in November, 1911, George Snadon was chosen Mayor. There were no candidates for Mayor at the city election last fall, but a new Board of Councilmen, politically opposed to Snadon, was elected. When this board met and organized on Monday night, it declared a vacancy existed in the office of Mayor, and thereupon proceeded to elect one of its members, Dr. J. M. Robinson, to fill the vacancy. Mr. Snadon insisted that, having been chosen at the first election held after Guthrie became a fifth-class town and for a term of four years, he is entitled to hold the office two years longer. The Councilmen held that he was in fact elected to serve until his successor was chosen in 1913.

With Dr. Robinson recognized as Mayor and presiding, the Council proceeded to elect the following officers: A. G. Grube, treasurer; J. A. Webb, secretary, and Capt. W. R. Bruce, of Russellville, marshal.

A change of classification does not remove officers elected for a term and Mayor Snadon's claim will very probably be upheld by the courts.

SEEMS ASSURED

Interurban From Nashville To Adairville, Kentucky.

Another interurban railway line, which proposes to tap further into the heart of the bluegrass region of Tennessee, with Nashville as its base and Franklin, Ky., as its terminus, has been successfully launched. The new traction company will be known as the Tennessee & Kentucky Interurban Railroad Company, articles of amendment to the charter issued ninety days ago to the Tennessee & Kentucky Railroad Company, permitting a change in name and an increase in capital stock from $10,000 to $15,000 having been filed on Tuesday with Register West Morton.

According to officials of the new interurban road, ready response has been accorded stock subscriptions throughout the territory to be traversed and right of ways have been granted to the Kentucky state line. George D. Bruce, of North Carolina, regarded as one of the leading construction engineers in the country, is at present in the field with a large corps of engineers, three trial routes having already been submitted to the company for consideration.—Tennessean.

WELCOME SUNSHINE

For Three Weeks Weather And Mud Were Horrible.

The sun rose in a clear sky Wednesday and the source of light made it a glorious day after three weeks of rain, snow, sleet and mud. Many say that they have never seen the streets so muddy, and the country people assert that there has been more mud in town than in the country. The city engineer began scraping the streets at the crossings of the principal streets Tuesday.

Sneak Thief Robs House.

Last Tuesday night a thief entered the home of W. C. Lacey, on West Thirteenth street, while everybody was from home, and got away with $9 in money. Other valuables and money were overlooked by the thief, who entered by forcing open a side window.

GEN. SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER SUCCUMBS TO EXTREME AGE

Last Surviving Lieutenant General of The Confederate Army—Wife and Only Son at His Bedside When He Died.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, last surviving Lieutenant General of the Confederate army, died Thursday night at his home, Glen Sily, in Hart county. He was born in 1823 on the farm where he died, and during his long and distinguished career he was an American soldier in Mexico, an officer in the Confederate army, Governor of his native State and the nominee of the National Democratic party for Vice President of the United States. He will be buried in Frankfort.

His critical illness was not generally known. He had been ill for two weeks, gradually growing weaker. Gen. Buckner was a graduate of West Point and his son is a Lieutenant in the army. Though 91 years old his mind was clear until his last consciousness.

Gen. Buckner was prepared for West Point at the schools of Munfordsville and Hopkinsville. He entered West Point in June, 1840. It is interesting to note that his son, Simon Bolivar, Jr., entered West Point in 1904, just sixty years after his father was graduated from that famous school for soldiers. He is now an officer in the Ninth Infantry, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky.

He was three times promoted for gallantry in the Mexican war and came out a captain. He was wounded at Cherubusco. He declined a Major General's commission in the Union army and entered the Confederate army and was left to surrender Ft. Donelson when Gen. Floyd, who was responsible for the defeat, escaped with his body guard.

He was Governor from 1887 to 1891. His second wife, who survives him, is a grandniece of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington, and also a grandniece by a different line, of his wife. She and her son are believed to be the last direct survivors of the Washingtons. As Miss Delia Claiborne she was married to Gen. Buckner in 1835. His only daughter by his first wife, who married the late Morris Belknap, survives him with three children. Gen. Buckner was closely related to a number of Hopkinsville families and frequently visited his cousin, Mr. John Buckner Trice, before he was enfeebled by age.

ANOTHER GREAT PLAY

Saint George and The Dragon At The Rex Monday.

People who have seen Dante's Inferno and Homer's Odyssey at The Rex will be glad to learn that they will have a chance to see the equal of either of them at the popular place of amusement next Monday. The story of "St. George and The Dragon" is familiar to all. It has been dramatized and staged by G. De Liguoro, who gave to the world in pictures the first two productions mentioned. The pictures have all been painted by artists and the effects cannot be described. Go and see them, at the regular prices. Mr. Shrode has been at great expense in bringing this play here, but nevertheless has not advanced the price. This is not a religious play, but in the wind-up the pagans are converted to Christianity.

The Christian County

Good Roads Association

As a direct result of the King Drag campaign which has made Christian county famous in good roads circles, and incidentally put Hopkinsville on the map as a free lunch town, the Christian County Good Roads Association has been organized as a permanent institution. We hope and predict that this will prove one of the greatest achievements of the combined efforts of the farmers of this section and of the H. B. M. A., and that the letters C. C. G. R. A. will gather that significance attaching to H. B. M. A. When such progressive farmers as S. L. Cowherd, G. H. Stowe, J. J. and C. W. Garrett, W. A. Glass, Holland and John W. Garrett, David Smith, C. E. Barker, B. F. Fuller, C. L. Dade, Herbert Dillman, David McCord and Frank Kelly and numerous others of like quality get behind a movement, there will be great things accomplished. A big attendance of all interested in this big question is expected at the next meeting, Monday, February 2, at 10 o'clock at the H. B. M. A. headquarters.

Pastor of Fredonia Church.

Rev. E. W. Barnett has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Fredonia, Ky., and has moved to Caldwell county to live. Mr. Barnett has been visiting the family of his father-in-law, Mr. W. E. Adcock, in this county, since his return from Virginia last fall.

THREE VIRGINIANS

Wilson, Owen and Glass Born Near Same Spot.

Woodrow Wilson was born at Staunton, Va., in 1856. Robert L. Owen, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, was born at Lynchburg, Va., in 1856. Carter Glass, chairman of the corresponding committee of the House, was born at Lynchburg, Va. in 1858. Other men had much to do with the enactment of the new banking and currency law, but these three, born within fifty miles of each other, two of them in the same year, had the greatest responsibilities. One is President, elected from New Jersey; another is a Senator from Oklahoma, a State never dreamed of in his youth, and the other, a Representative, still lives in his native town.

In a country so vast and so new as this Fate plays many pranks, but in all its history there have been few coincidences more interesting.

MUCH DOING

In Hopkinsville Mule Market and Prices Are Up.

Quite a number of dealers from a distance have been here buying mules for some time, which naturally raised the price for good mules. Prices this week have ranged from $200 to $260 for the best, while the ordinary have been sold at from $125 down to $75. Extra good animals are not for sale by farmers able to hold them, though several really good animals have been brought here from neighboring counties. Shipments this week by Layne & Leavell amounted to five cars Thursday.

Things worth Knowing

We spend over $5,000,000,000 annually for things we could do without. Here are some of the items:
Intoxicating liquors...$2,000,000,000
Tobacco.....1,200,000,000
Jewelry.....800,000,000
Automobiles.....500,000,000
Confectionery.....200,000,000
Soft drinks.....120,000,000
Tea and coffee.....100,000,000
Millinery.....90,000,000
Patent medicines.....80,000,000
Chewing gum.....13,000,000

In comparison with the above expenditure it is estimated that contributions to church work at home are $250,000,000 and to foreign missions $12,000,000.

CAMERON IS COMING

To Talk To The H. B. M. A. On The Coal Rate Question Again.

Secretary Bleich has received a letter from C. C. Cameron, coal traffic manager of the Illinois Central railroad, saying he will come to Hopkinsville next week for a further conference with the H. B. M. A. on the coal rate question.

Upon the occasion of the recent visit of Mr. J. L. Durrett, who gave notice that the I. C. would not reduce its rates below 75 cents, Mr. Durrett was given to understand that the decision would not be accepted as final, but there would be an appeal to the Railroad Commission.

The coming of Mr. Cameron, the official having in charge the fixing of rates on coal, is encouraging and relief may yet be obtained by conference and agreement.

GETTING TOGETHER

New Superintendent and Board of Education Meet.

Great innovations just to make people talk is by no means the policy or part of the policy, of Prof. L. E. Foster, the new superintendent of county schools. Wherever changes are needed he will not hesitate to make them, but any radical departure from old and tried methods is not in his program for the coming four years of service. We believe his administration will be such as he will be proud of and will meet with general approval. Last Tuesday he and the county board of education met and talked matters over and got better acquainted. His having secured the help of county agriculturalist Morgan to assist in teaching the young the rudiments of successful farming will certainly meet with the approval of the people.

CHILD SHOT

Playing With Pistol and May Die of Wound.

"Papa, I've shot myself," was the greeting the 6-year-old daughter of Clarence Gossett, of the Red Hill neighborhood, gave him Wednesday as he rushed to the house from his barn on hearing a pistol shot. The child was left alone in the house and somehow secured possession of a 32 caliber automatic pistol. She fired two shots, but no attention was paid to the first report. The bullet from the second entered her left breast, passed entirely through her body and then went through the partition wall and spent its force against a nail in the next room. The child is in a very critical condition and there is barely a chance for her to recover.

Ashton Boyd Dead.

Ashton A. Boyd, a native of Hopkinsville, died at the Hazelwood Sanatorium, Louisville, last Tuesday, at the age of 41 years. His father was a member of the Hopkinsville bar 35 years ago and left here about 1878. The deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs. Walter F. Shrader, of Louisville. He was a first cousin of Dr. L. G. Alexander, of this city.

Sold Farm.

Farm property has changed hands considerably in the past two months with a marked advance in prices for the most fertile lands. The latest transaction of magnitude was Mr. and Mrs. John C. Thurmond's transfer of 292 acres of land near Gracey to A. T. Vinson, of Trigg county. The consideration was $12,000.

Lucky Thirteen.

Thirteen survivors have been accounted for out of 38 on board the wrecked tank steamer, Oklahoma, off the Atlantic coast.

ANNUAL REPORT

For Health District Embracing the Two Hopkinsville Magisterial Districts.

Register W. H. Martin, of the State Board of Health department, whose district embraces the city of Hopkinsville and the suburban districts of Palmyra and Concord, has compiled his annual report for 1913, which is as follows:

	White	Col.
Deaths in Hop'ville	73	112
" " Palmyra	112	45
" " Concord	6	12

191 169
Of the 185 in the city, 16 were stillborn children, nearly all of them colored. The total deaths was 360.

	White	Col.
Births in Hop'ville	99	91
" " Palmyra	19	20
" " Concord	8	13

126 124

The 250 births included 16 stillborn children above referred to in the city. The deaths in detail were:

IN HOPKINSVILLE.

Tuberculosis.....	41
Typhoid Fever.....	5
Pneumonia.....	20
Pellagra.....	2
Stillbirths.....	16
All Other Causes.....	81—185

AT WESTERN STATE HOSPITAL.

Tuberculosis.....	31
Pellagra.....	9
All Other Causes.....	90—130

PALMYRA DISTRICT.

(Except State Hospital.)

Tuberculosis.....	6
Pneumonia.....	4
All Other Causes.....	27—157

IN CONCORD DISTRICT.

Tuberculosis.....	2
Pneumonia.....	2
All Other Causes.....	14—18

The heavy mortality at the State Hospital, more than one-third of all the deaths, is due to the feeble condition of the patients, many of them old and in very poor health when brought to the institution. Many of them die in a few days or weeks after their arrival.

Of the 80 deaths from tuberculosis, 31 were in the hospital. The fearful mortality from this disease is shown by the fact that it caused more than 22 per cent. of all the deaths. In Hopkinsville alone there were 41 deaths or 22 per cent. from tuberculosis. The sanatorium authorized by a vote of the people cannot be established any too soon.

TELEPHONE QUESTION UP.

Fiscal Court Takes Steps To Sell a Franchise Under Late Decision.

The Fiscal Court has appointed a committee to confer with interested parties in regard to the sale of a county franchise for a telephone system. The Christian-Todd Telephone Company has not yet indicated that it will be a bidder for such a franchise, the matter being under consideration. Judge Knight, Attorney Smith and Justices Morris, Rogers, Hamby and Garrett constitute the committee.

John W. Richards was appointed to make the annual tax settlement with ex-Sheriff Low Johnson.

A final settlement was made with Mr. Johnson as receiver and treasurer of the turnpike bond fund of 1910 and he was allowed $150 for his services.

The Youngsters.

The youngest man in the house is Elmer Brown, of Owensboro. He is 24. The next youngest member is R. B. Hulchcraft, Jr., of Paris. He is twenty-five years of age. Will Duffy, of Louisville, is also one of the younger members, being but twenty-six.

"For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the State said I was

BIDDING FOR A WIFE

By GRACE KERRIGAN.

Driving across the country on a June day with horse and buggy, a young man smiled and laughed and hummed. He looked a crow, and he shouted at a farmer in the field. Now and then he slapped his leg, and now and then he gave the old horse a cut with the whip, and a few seconds later begged his pardon for the net.

Mr. Ralph Warrenton, attorney and counselor at law, was a resident of the town of Dorset, where he was neither beloved nor despised.

He had set up a law office on nothing, and still had his original capital, and was in debt besides. He had four clients in three years, and had lost their cases for them with promptness and dispatch.

It was the general opinion that he didn't know much about law, and that some day he would get discouraged and go into partnership with the town cooper.

They hadn't been fair to young Warrenton. They are never fair to the young man who starts out without money or influence to make his way in the world. A "pull" is needed, and when one has it his road is plain and easy to travel.

Ralph Warrenton was smart, but he wasn't in with the ring. It could neither be said that he had money or was making money, and so the clients carried their easy cases to other lawyers and gave him those without a hope. He didn't amount to much socially. How could he when he couldn't buy a dress suit nor join a club? He had raised the money two or three times to buy a chance at the "grab bag" at church festivals, but that hadn't helped him much.

In the first place, how could the briefless young lawyer afford to be riding about in a livery rig at an expense of $2.50?

In the second, why was the grin on his face so broad and merry that one was reminded of eating hot maple sugar on a white maple chip out in the spring sugar bush?

He had a cool ten thousand dollars right in his pocket. He had been over to Iowa to get it cashed. He had been left that sum in his grandfather's will,
and as no one had contested the will on the grounds that the old man was off his perch the legacy had come along. And knowing all that the money meant to him the young man wanted to ring out the fire department.

"Doggone your hide, are you blind?"
The horse was driving himself, and had almost run over an old man who was paddling along in the middle of the highway.

"Whoa there! I didn't see you. I beg your pardon and hope you are not hurt."

"You needn't hope anything about it! You are a darn mean man! If you had run over me I'd have you in prison!"

"Again I beg your pardon."
"You needn't beg nothin'. I know you. You are that young whippers-napper lawyer from town, and you tried to set a party up to make me trouble!"

"But I don't remember you," said
the lawyer.

"I don't care whether you do or not!
If you ever try to run over me again
I'll give you a dose of your own law!"

Young Warrenton's spirits were somewhat chilled as he drove on, but he entered Dorset with most of his smile back and drove to the bank to open an account. The deference extended him was halmy. It makes a heap of difference to a banker whether you come to deposit or to borrow!

"By the way," said the banker as the business was concluded, "why don't you pick up a good real estate investment with a part of this money?"

"Why, I might," was replied. "Do you know the Isabell farm?"

"No."

"A mortgage has been foreclosed on it, and it is to be sold to the highest bidder tomorrow. Of course the old man Carney, who held the mortgage, will bid it in if he can. No one may bid against him, as no one wants trouble with him. He'll get a farm worth all of $2,000 for less than $800. By laying out $1,000 in improvements you will have a $5,000 farm there. Better go out and make a bid. I like to see young men get along."

And this was the banker to whom the lawyer had been introduced twice,
but who didn't remember his name three days ago when passing him on the street. He was now anxious to throw something good in the young man's way.

Mr. Warrenton drove out to the farm the next morning. No one had arrived yet, and he knocked at the door of the farmhouse to make some inquiries. He started back when it was opened by a young girl whom he thought must have dropped down from the city the night before.

"I want—want—," he stammered.
"You wish to see my father, probably?"

"The farmer who is to be sold out today."

"That is my father. He is in bed with a broken leg, but he will see you."

It did not take the farmer ten minutes to explain matters. Poor crops two seasons in succession—the loss of his wife by death—the accident to him.
He had defaulted on his last payment, and old Carney had sold him out. The old man had a son, and he'd have cancelled the mortgage if—

"Father!" said the girl in the door;
and the subject dropped at once.

Young Warrenton proved right there and then that he had the makings of a good lawyer. He wasn't ten minutes figuring out why the mortgage had been foreclosed. He talked a bit more with the girl, whom the father had referred to as Ethel, and admiring the courage she was showing in the face of misfortune, he said to himself:
"I'll see that old Carney doesn't find it so easy after all."

Five minutes later he knew who the old man was. He was the man he had almost run over the day before. Ten or twelve men arrived at the same time with him, and among them was the son. He was a typical farmer's hired man. He knew when to sow oats, but he didn't know who was governor of the state. He could spoil "hen," but he ate with his knife. He could plow a straight furrow, but he had never heard of the Atlantic ocean.

"And the old man was ready to cancel the mortgage if the girl would marry that thing!" exclaimed young Warrenton to himself.

The first bid the sheriff got was $460, and old Carney looked around defiantly as he made it.

"And fifty better!" added the lawyer.

"See here, sheriff, this feller can't be allowed to bid!" shouted the old man.

"But why?"

"Because he almost run me down yesterday!"

"That's no reason."

"Well, he hasn't got a hundred dollars to his name!"

"As it happens, he's got an even ten thousand!" replied the official after being shown the certificate of deposit.

"I'll outbid him—I'll bid forty times
what the place is worth!"
But old Carney began to cringe as the bidding went up, and when it had reached $850 he drew out. His son tried to brace him up, and he got the laugh from the others, but he consoled himself by retorting:

"The feller can have the farm, but if he gets the gal away from Isaac—I!"
The sheriff was pointing a finger at him and he swallowed the rest.

When all was over Mr. Warrenton knocked softly at the door. No one answered it, and he entered. He heard voices in the bedroom, and he tiptoed across. Mr. Isabell had his hands over his face, and that of the weeping girl was hidden in the bed-covers.

"It's—it's over!" said the young man.

"Then who don't old Carney come in and order us to vacate forthwith?"
asked the farmer.

"Because I bid in the place instead of old Carney!"

"But how long do you give us?"

"Will ten years be satisfactory?"

The girl rose up, and through her tears and with a trembling voice she said:

"I can't tell you how much we have worried. It will be a kindness if you will tell us just what your plans are,
in regard to the farm."

"Why, your father is going to get well as fast as he can. Meanwhile, I will get a hired man for him to direct.
When he can walk around there will be a partnership. We'll combine law and agriculture and change the sign to read: 'Warrenton & Isabell!'"

Did the girl understand? Not for a long time. Not till one evening when the lawyer asked:

"See here, dear, I bid for the farm and encumbrances. Didn't that mean,
you?"

"You are a lawyer and ought to know!" she laughed.

REMINDER OF OLD WRECK

Chair From Steamer Sunk in Lake
Superior Nearly Forty Years Ago Recovered.

Walking on the beach of Lake Superior near Marquette, A. A. Cole found the remains of an old chair which had apparently been washed up in a recent storm and which he carried to his summer cottage. With the addition of a few pieces of wood and a coat of paint Mr. Cole transformed his find into a presentable rockers.

While making the repairs he discovered in stenciled letters on the bottom underneath the seat the word
"Str. St. Clair." Pioneer residents of the upper peninsula well remember the boat, which foundered in the western end of Lake Superior with all hands in a storm nearly forty years ago.

How the chair came to be washed up on the beach at Marquette and where it has been the almost half century since the wreck is more than people hereabout can understand.
Though water-soaked, the wood of the chair is in a fair state of preservation.

Ancient Peruvian Indian Tribe.

Behind the Black Cordilleras, so called because they are barren and have been without rain since 1868, lies a plateau with an elevation ranging from 12,000 to 16,000 feet, inhabited by the most peculiar tribe of Indians in Peru. A returned traveler says their chests are distended, because of the altitude, and claims that they cannot live in the lower altitudes.
They are stolid, but good workers, harmless, but given to drink. They do not speak Spanish, having preserved their ancient tribal language.

Truth Will Out.

She—If I'd know you'd be such a brute to poor Fido, I'd never have married you.

He—The anticipated pleasure of kicking that miserable little beast was one of my chief reasons for proposing.

Not An Experiment.

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly trouble. I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly." You need not be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb, ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles today. Advertisement.

bring the happenings of every one.
No other newspaper has a service
equal to that of The World and it relates everything fully and promptly.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that it to be found in a first class daily.

THE THIRCE-A-WEEK WORLD'S
regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $3.00.

AND THERE WAS A GIRL

By GRANVILLE OSBORNE.

In the lonely corner which they selected he settled into the chair by her side with a sigh.

"You're awfully
good," he said.
You may smoke,
if you like," she told him, coming forward and staring out over the rail.

Below them the town seemed tumbling headlong down the hillside to the sea—a huddle of white and flat-
roofed, houses
threaded by tortuous streets.
Moonlight
drenched it all,
and far, far down
the shimmering
Atlantic swept in and broke against
the cliffs.

Jack Benton's
gaze, wandering
outward, surveyed
the scene indif-ferently. It was very beautiful—yet, in an exotic way; but he was weary with it all, and his heart faint with hunger for home.

That was why he had weakened at the eleventh hour and accepted Dora's invitation—because he had been so long away from home.

She chose to break the silence with a careless question:

"What vessel is that?"

Jack glanced down toward the harbor. A fussy steamer was puffing in to its anchorage, like a fat, white ghost with bright, staring eyes.

"It's the mail boat," he told her.

"She's in late. Tomorrow," he continued in a half whisper, "she'll be going on to Gibraltar and connecting with the liner for home!"

"Yes," said the girl, abstractedly,
and lapsed again into her silence;
for she was considering how she might say to him that which she longed to say.

"Now," said Jack, presently, without daring to look at the girl—whose eyes never for an instant left his strong, clean profile—"now, tell me everything, please. Nora—all the news about everyone I know."

She obeyed quietly, in a low voice.
It seemed a long account, but Jack did not tire in the least.

"And—Gwynne and Beth Somers? They're married long since, I suppose?"

"No. I didn't mention it, Jack, because—"

"I understand—and thank you. But —not married! I must know, Dora."

"Tom Gwynne," she said, after a pause, "is dead."

"Dead!" he whispered, incredulous-
ly. "Dead!" He drew a long breath.

"Please," he cried, "please tell me!
Don't you see I'm tortured, Dora? I know you only wish to spare me, but—you see, there was a girl, and—
and—"

"This makes it different," said the girl, quietly. "Now you can ask her, Jack." She went on, while he listened, aghost at his slip. "That's why I wanted to tell you—for the girl's sake. You didn't think that she who knew you, believed you guilty—did you? Because we didn't, and that is why I was glad, oh, so glad, to find you, and to be the first, the very first to tell you! You see, after you sacrificed everything, Jack, and ran away, trying to save your chum, to make us believe that you had—stolen the money, and not Tom Gwynne."

"But you mustn't blame him," Benton broke in quickly. "He didn't really know what he was doing."

"I know," she nodded decidedly.

"I know that you sacrificed all to save your friend. And when Tom discovered what you had done, when it was too late, he told Beth. Of course that broke the engagement;
and it was only a little later that Tom was thrown from his auto somehow—we never really knew what had happened. He left a signed confession; but we didn't know where you had buried yourself, Jack."

"Oh, you don't know, you don't know," he cried brokenly, "what this means to me, Dora!"

"Ah, but I do," she told him, gently. "I know, very well. That's why I came here, Jack—to find you.
I'd heard it was a place where people went when they were in trouble, and I wanted to tell you, because—because—again there sounded that pitiful little quaver in her voice—
"because the girl is waiting for you."

"Then I'll go!" he cried. "I'll go!
Dora, Dora, I don't know how to thank you! I'm off in the morning by that mail steamer. Home! You won't mind my hurrying off to pack, will you? She sails at sunrise—and just think, in ten days I'll see Beth—"

And when he was gone she stood for a long time motionless, dry of eye and lip, staring at the corner around which he had disappeared. Finally she stretched forth both arms.

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" she sobbed
as if her heart would break—but gastly, that none might hear.

Sure Enough!

"That man you just introduced me to impressed me as one who knows how to keep his mouth shut."

"Yes, he did."

HISTORICAL PAPERS

Will Be Read By Mrs. H. C. Locker at D. A. R. Meeting.

The Col. John Green Chapter D. A. R. will meet with Mrs. Jouett Henry Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a feature of the meeting will be a review of two recent historical publications. One is the literary history of Kentucky by John Wilson Townsend, of Lexington, published as "Kentucky in American Letters from 1784 to 1192." The other is the Chalkley Records of Judge Lyman Chalkley, also of Lexington. Among other things this book contains a list of wills recorded in Christian county from earliest times until 1840.

LOCAL PICKUPS.

Gano Bullard, late with the O. G. Sprouse Co., is dispensing smiles and soft drinks in the store room of D. M. Booker, having bought the soda fountain and cigar department from Mr. Booker.

Otho McCord, for several years with the F. A. Yost Co., is now in the grocery business on West Seventh street.

The prospects are that the Water Co. and the Kentucky Public Service Co. will get into their new quarters on North Main street in about a week.

Rev. E. E. Gabbard, of Louisville, will preach at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning and at night.

Rev. Mack Harper, the preacher blacksmith, has moved to Fairview and will preach for half a dozen different congregations, but his industry and strenuousness will be equal to the demands.

The contractors for building the Carnegie Library are ready for putting in the foundation and will begin Monday.

Nothing has yet been done toward finishing the Pennyroyal Hotel, to be completed by the first of March, but when the architects complete the plans a large force will be put to work.

Was 86 Years Old.

Mrs. A. M. Stagner died Wednesday morning at the home of D. A. Walker, about 6 miles north of this city, aged 86 years. Her death was due to consumption. She was for many years a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and was greatly esteemed for her cherry disposition and kindness to all. She was buried in the family burying ground.

Ex-Sheriff Low Johnson went to Barnhill, Illinois, this week.

The Three Duffys.

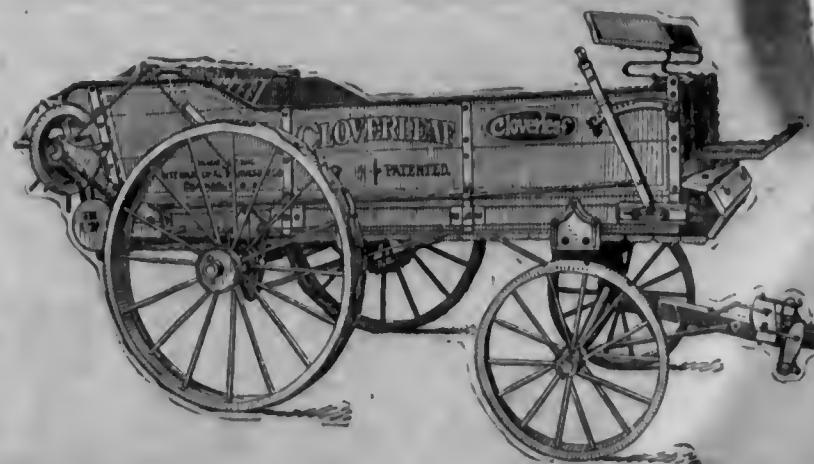

There are three Duffys in the house. They are: John C., of Hopkinsville; H. C., of Cynthia, and William C., of Louisville. Comparing notes Monday, the Hoptown and Louisville Duffys found that they were both lawyers and had played a good game of football in their college careers. Each of the trio has "C." for a middle initial.

John T. Edmunds went to Frankfort Thursday.

No Ice Yet.

Tuesday night is said to have been the coldest night during the winter, but not cold enough for the farmers to have any hope of an ice season soon. Louisville's people are now happy in the use of ice in families at 20 cents per hundred and users of large quantities are paying only 10 cents per hundred. The independent factories have cut the price and they say they are going to stay where they are.

TOBACCO MARKET

Heavy Delivery For Loose Floors Continues Steadily.

The first week in the New Year from the first day to yesterday, marked a strong tendency upward in prices, and though some good leaf has appeared on the market, the lower grades have persistently refused to make way on the loose floors. A great quantity of the weed has been sold, even though in too high order.

Inspector Albemathy has compared present prices with those of a year ago and says that all grades above common French are from $1 to $1.50 higher than last year. Trash is 50 cents higher than a year ago. He wants to emphasize the fact that tobacco in too high order of which there is at this time much complaint, sells from $1 to $2 per hundred less than when it is in good condition.

There are plenty of buyers on the market and the return of the Imperial has doubtless not only increased the demand but boosted prices. Its buyers are out in force examining the crops in the barns and farmers seem disposed to hold to their crops until the company has had a chance to take them. This does not mean that the business of the loose floors is dropping off by any means for the sale of over half a million pounds up to yesterday morning dis-

SPLIT LOG DRAG

Tried By Mayor Yost For Scraping the Streets.

Under the personal direction of Mayor Yost Thursday the split log drag donated to the city by the H. B. M. A. was tried on Virginia street as a mud scraper. The streets were not kept swept last fall and a good deal of mud has accumulated during the winter and it is going to be a big job to scrape them. It is easy enough to sweep off the dust, but quite a serious undertaking to scrape off the mud and ice. The drag made a ridge of mud in the center, leaving the sides comparatively clean.

Stegar-Cayce.

Mr. John T. Stegar, Jr., and Miss Mary Edna Cayce were married at the home of Mrs. M. E. Knight Thursday night, Rev. A. R. Kasey officiating. Miss Anna Adams and Mr. B. P. Eubanks were attendants and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Ruth Knight. They went at once to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stegar, near Beverly, where they will reside. The groom has been in the store at Masonville but will devote his attention to farming with his father.

The excavation for the Postoffice building was completed Thursday and the contractors commenced putting in the concrete foundation yesterday morning.

Another Robbery.

Thursday night while the family was at the picture show, thieves, by means of a ladder, entered the upper story of the home of L. H. Davis on South Virginia Street. They found Mrs. Davis' missionary money, a small amount, but overlooked her pocket-book, hanging behind the dresser, which contained her diamond ring, breast-pin and other jewelry. When they returned from the picture show they found the second story lighted, but couldn't imagine what was the matter. The burglars had turned on the electric lights on entering the house and didn't take the trouble to turn them off when they left.

NO IMPROVEMENT

In Condition of J. W. Carlross, Who Sustained Second Paralytic Stroke.

Mr. J. W. Carlross sustained a second stroke of paralysis the first of the week and his condition is now such as to cause anxiety among his family. His condition yesterday afternoon showed no change whatever. He has been feeble for two years or more from his first attack and owing to his advanced age, there is no hope of his ever being strong again.

AMUSEMENTS

The following is taken from the Fort Worth, Texas, Record, and refers to "The Rosary" which is the bill for Holland's Opera House Tuesday night next, January 13:

"While vesper chimes sounded the tintinabulating requiem of an eventful day, while secluded choirs sang the world's greatest love song, 'The Rosary,' and while a priest prayed, two hearts long estranged, leaped together. And thus ended 'The Rosary,' which was presented at the Byers Thursday night."

"The Rosary" is not a popular play. It has no blood and thunder scenes that made the blood rush faster. But it is a play with a soul—it makes the heart grow warmer. It tells the story of a home broken by a moral degenerate. It tells the story of the poisoning of a heart by suspicion's darts from jealousy's arrow. It tells the story of mind's superiority over matter, of spirit's suzerainty over mind.

Ordinarily, theatrical producers attempt to avoid the religious element in any play. But "The Rosary" is not a sectarian play, although it is interwoven about a Catholic symbol and a Catholic priest. It is universal and extra-denominational and non-sectarian because of its message to the home. Miss Bethel Barth, carrying the parts of Vera Wilton and Alice March, twin sisters, did good work. Rufus L. Perry was admirable as a Catholic priest. He possesses a pleasant and rare voice. Prices—Low.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—
"Kentuckian"
 A virile, newsy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

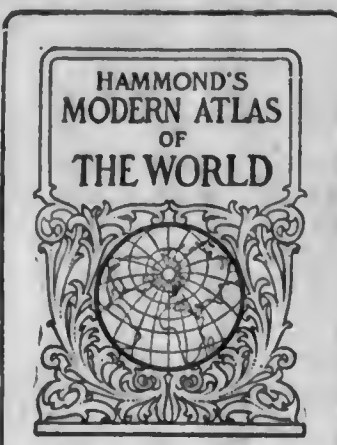

Second—
Technical World Magazine
 is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to hulk away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What John London says:—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—
A Fine Atlas
 This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/4. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

STING OF SCORPION

Peons of Mexico Suffer the Most From Deadly Pest.

Four Thousand Deaths Yearly Are Caused by the Venomous Animal—Convulsions Precede Victim's Final Collapse.

Whatever the limitations placed upon life expectancy in Mexico in these restless days the Mexican scorpion still holds the record as official executioner of the republic. Four thousand persons are reported to die each year in Mexico from the stings of scorpions.

There are several varieties of scorpions in Mexico, some of them exceedingly venomous and others little feared. In the neighborhood of Tepic the virulent centurus gracilis abounds, but it is little known about the more northern state of Sonora. It is one of the most venomous creatures in the world.

In the small city of Durango scorpions are perhaps more plentiful and more dangerous than anywhere else in the republic. Here the climate is humid and torrid—it is in the "tierra caliente"—and it is estimated that more than 150,000 scorpions are killed each year, with no appreciable effect on their numbers.

A scorpion resembles a diminutive lobster. Some specimens are eight inches long, though the average length is from two to four inches. The claws closely resemble a lobster's; with them the scorpion crushes its prey after disabling it by means of a sting.

The body of a scorpion consists of several segmented joints, the last five or more narrowing down to form the tail, which curls up forward over the body and terminates in the sting. This businesslike appendage is a horny, sharp spine containing two little openings, which connect with the venom gland within the cell of the last segment. In striking, the scorpion gives the tail a rapid lashing motion forward in advance of the body and literally administers a hypodermic injection of poison, or rather several injections, for it usually stings repeatedly when it does strike.

In color scorpions vary according to environment. One ordinarily colorless or translucent will assume a brown or blackish shade in dark surroundings. Scorpions live in the cracks of the sun-baked clay, under stones, in the chinks of the adobe huts and in the cracks in the plaster of old frame houses. They prey upon spiders and other night marauding insects. A spider stung by a scorpion may be observed undergoing convulsions just before death as animals or human beings do.

Unless sleeping cots are well screened and the supports immersed in cans of kerosene or carbolic acid—water evaporates too rapidly—the prowling scorpion may find its way beneath the bed covers and sting the restless child. By nature it is a nocturnal pest. In Mexico every one takes a peep in the toe of his shoe before dressing in the morning to assure himself that no undesirable citizen is hiding there.

Contrary to common belief scorpions never commit suicide by stinging themselves to death—at least not in Mexico. In fact they seem immune to their own venom. Two well-matched specimens will battle to death if confined in a jar, stinging each other repeatedly, yet the victor does not die. He tears his antagonist into small pieces with his claws and voraciously devours every trace of the vanquished foe. And the cannibal thrives on the diet.

Some scorpion bites cause little more than burning pain and numbness in the part affected for a few days. But the more poisonous varieties cause death, and that speedily, especially when they sting young children or debilitated old people. The lower classes of people suffer more than the well to do because of their custom of going about half naked most of the time.

In serious cases the local numbness and pain or burning extend over the body in a few hours. Then follows a feeling as of a ball in the throat, the victim clutching his throat as though choking on a foreign body. Prompt treatment at this stage will usually save life.

If not treated the mouth soon begins to froth and the eyes become red and hypersensitive to light. Within an hour or two the breathing grows shorter and more difficult, the body turns blue, the pulse falls and convulsions set in. The convulsions recur frequently during several hours, but complete relaxation usually ushers in the end.

Fortunately unconsciousness develops early, so that the victim does not suffer the tortures of one dying from lockjaw. The average time required for a scorpion sting to cause death is twelve or fourteen hours. This is calculated to make some American rattlesnakes ashamed of themselves.

There comes a time in every business when cash is more desirable than profits—when regardless of the selling value of merchandise, it must be converted into cash as rapidly as possible to satisfy the demands of the proprietors. Just now no possible profit that we might make on our brand new, up to the minute stock looks so good to us as an immediate supply of cash. We would rather have cash at a loss than to hold this merchandise. To you as a buyer, this means that now is one of the Golden opportunities of years, for in

15 Whirlwind Bargain Days, Ending Jan. 31st

We will clean out every item of this season's stock. Not a piece, not a single item is to be expected—all are to be converted into cash as quickly as possible, for we have determined upon a radical reduction. We have determined upon a sale in which profits will be forgotten; in which the wholesale costs will be considered, and in which no price slashing that will lead to an immediate conversion of merchandise into cash will be thought too severe.

This the chance to provide for yourself and family for months to come. This is the time when you can buy for three-fourths, two-thirds, or even one-half and less of real value. This is the bargain time thrifty folks who would reduce the high cost of living have been eagerly awaiting.
